Vienna, July 30.

TO Day the Duke of Mantua was put to the Ban of the Empire, in the Forms us'd on such an Occasion. The Imperial Commissioners have sent an Expresse hither, to communicate to our Ministry the King of Sweden's Resolution touching the Execution of the Treaty of Alt-Ranstad which was deliver'd to them by Baron Stralenheim: The chief Contents are, that his Swedish Majesty had done as much as was possible to procure the full Performance of that Treaty; but that the most essential Points remain unexecuted: That he longs to see every Article made good that was agreed, not only according to the Letter, but also according to the Explication of the Treaty given to the Imperial Commissioners by Baron Stralenheim: That he desires nothing more than that due Regard be had to the clear and obvious Meaning of the Treaty, and that his Majesty hopes the Emperour will have more Regard to the Justice of this Demand, than to the Groundless Suggestions of some who would sow Discord between them. Finally the King of Sweden desires the Emperour to bethink himself what Right and what Means his Royal Majesty had reserv'd to himself for procuring the intire Execution of the said Treaty; and what he should be oblig'd to do unless full Satisfaction be speedily given him; but that he hopes his Imperial Majesty will take prudent Resolutions to prevent all Extremities.

'The Particulars given in the Dutch Prints, of 'the Manner in which the French gain'd Possession 'of Ghent 2 few Days before the Battle happen'd 'near Audenarde, are pretty remarkable, being as 'follow.

From the Harl. and Amst. Cour. dated July 12.

Ghent, July 8. The 3d Instant a Party of Horse, with each a Foot-Soldier behind, commanded by the Lieutenant-Generals Grimaldi and de Capres, was detach'd from the French Army, under Pretence of covering their Forragers about Halle; but on the Way they receiv'd Order to march to Ninove with all Secrecy and Expedition; so that they thought they were to joyn the Count de la Motte: But the Night between the 4th and 5th; after they had rested a few Hours at Ninove, they receiv'd further Orders to pursue their March hither, and by break of Day they came into our Neigbourhood. Then the said Lieutenants-General detach'd Brigadier la Faille, formerly our high Bayliff, with 60 Men to this City, which had no Garrison in it; and 5 of his Soldiers came at the opening of the Gate as Deserters, and held the Watch (consisting of only 5 or 6 Men of our Train-bands) in Discourse, while 5 others came to them pretending to be Deserters likewise, and lastly came the Brigadier himself. The Watch seeing themselves deceiv'd and overpower'd, and knowing the Brigadier was not ill-belov'd by the Populace, threw down their Arms: In the mean time the French grew continually more numerous, and soon made themselves Masters of the Gates and the other Posts. Upon this the Alarm-Bell was rung out; but 'twas too late, and many of the Burghers, instead of taking Arms, came into the Streets (some out of Curiosity, others out of Affection) to see the French enter; so that they easily made themselves Masters of the whole City. About 10 a Clock the quondam high Bayliff went to the Town-house, and presented to the Magistrates the following Act of the Elector of Bavaria, which was accepted.

Maximilian Emanuel, &c.

'HIS Electoral Highness entertaining Hopes, be-'fore his Departure for the Rhine, that the 'Duke of Burgundy by the Superiority of his Forces, 'would obtain some good Success in the Course of 'the Campaign, and deliver the chief Towns of 'Flanders from the Oppression which they have suf-'fer'd since they have been in the Hands of the Ene-'my, thought fit to leave his Orders for Sigtifying to the 'Magistrates of Ghent and to all the Inhabitants of 'the same, how highly satisfied he is with the Zeal, 'Fidelity, and Adherence, which they have always 'shewn for the King their Lawful Soveraign, and 'preserv'd during the Time they have been in the 'Possession of the Enemy: And also for assuring 'them, that if by the good Success of the Army of 'the two Crowns they be agen recover'd to the O-'bedience of his Catholick Majesty, he will not 'only protect and maintain them in their antient 'Privileges, Rights, and Customs, but also enlarge 'them with such as they shall judge to conduce most 'to their common Benefit. And for the Satisfaction 'and Security of those who may not have behav'd 'themselves as good Subjects, his Majesty has grant-'ed, and grants by this Act a general Pardon to all 'who in any Manner whatsoever have been wanting 'to their Duty. Also his Electoral Highness, in con-'deration of such happy Success, promises all those 'who are in the Magistracy of Ghent, that they shall 'continue in their Offices for 2 Years to come. His 'Electoral Highness commands all whom this may 'concern, to govern themselves according to it. 'Done at Mons the 12th of May,

Sign'd M. EMANUEL.

The Governour of the Castle, tho' but ill provided, observing how things went, made all Preparations for his Defence; whereupon M. Overdam and a Deputy from the Magistrates were sent to confer with him; but he would not hearken to any Propositions for Surrendring, declar'd he would defend himself to the last Extremity, and assoon as they were gone out, caus'd Cannon to be pointed against the City, and posted his Men round the Walls: The Rabble beginning to offer some Insult to the English, he caus'd some Volleys of Cannon and Musquet-Shot to be fir'd to disperse them. In the Mean time some Men of the Body of Troops commanded by General Murray, appear'd before the Bruges-Gate; but finding it shut, and in the Possession of the French, presently retir'd: Upon which that General broke up with his Troops from Marienkerk, and made off with all Expedition to Sas van Ghent. In the Afternoon Deputies were sent agen to the Governour of the Castle; but he persisted in his first Answer: In the Evening the Count de Bergeyck arriv'd here, and the Governour was 3 or 4 Times more summon'd to surrender; but to no purpose. Hereupon Men were set to work to raise Batteries, and some Cannon were drawn from the Walls to be plac'd on them. About Midnight 5 Cannon-Shot were fir'd from the Castle, but without doing any Damage worth mentioning. The 6th several thousand Fascines were brought together, and some French Soldiers march'd out of the City, to attack the Castle behind. In the Evening, the Governour of the Castle despairing of Succour, sent his Son to General Grimaldi's Quarters, to try what Terms might be had for surrendring: But 'twas Midnight before the Capitulation was agreed; and at 9 this Morning the French had Possession of the Gate yielded to them: The Governour and his Garrison are to march out with all Marks of Honour. The 6th, 7th, and this Day, Proclamation was made by Sound of Trumpet, that whoever had in their Custody any Effects belonging to the English, should deliver them to the Procureur-General, on the Penalty of forfeiting double the Value on Discovery. Yesterday the Granaries of the Dealers in Corn were visited, and an Account taken of the Quantities of Corn in them, and all the Bakers were set to making Bread, Bread, which is to be sent to Day to the Duke of Burgundy's Army.

Tunbridge-Wells, July 6. 'An Account of the Glorious Victory gain'd by the Duke of Marlborough over the French in Flanders arriving here this Day, the Nobility and Gentry order'd a Bonfire to be erected on the Top of the Hill, in which was 7 Waggon Load of Wood, and in the Evening they all repair'd to the Place, and drank the Queen's, the Prince's, and the General's Healths, 5 great Guns firing at every Health, several Barrels of strong Beer were distributed among the People, who express'd their Joy by louder Acclamations and Huzza's then had been ever observ'd before at this Place.
